

The Best Drinks for Young Children

The best drinks for children under age 1 are human milk and/or iron-fortified infant formula. The best drinks for children older than age 1 are water and milk.

BEST CHOICES

Water

- 0-6 months: No water needed
- 6-12 months: No more than 4-8 ounces a day during mealtimes.
 - Water should not replace any amount of human milk or formula.
- 1-3 years: 8-32 ounces a day, depending on milk consumption.
- 4-5 years: 12-40 ounces a day, depending on milk consumption.

Plain, Pasteurized Milk

- 0-12 months: No milk needed
- 12-24 months: 16-24 ounces plain, pasteurized whole milk is (depending on solid food consumption a day).
 - Reduced-fat (2%) or low-fat (1%) milk may be considered, if your child's doctor says it is ok.
- 2-3 years: up to 16 ounces a day of plain, pasteurized fat-free (skim) or low-fat (1%) milk.
- 4-5 years: up to 20 ounces a day plain, pasteurized fat-free (skim) or low-fat (1%) milk.
- Talk with your child's doctor before serving any plant-based milk substitutes.

OCCASIONAL CHOICE

100% Juice

This includes 100% fruit and vegetable juice blends.

- 0-12 months: No juice needed
- 1-3 years: No more than 4 ounces of 100% juice a day
- 4-5 years: No more than 4 to 6 ounces of 100% juice a day

Juice is best as a treat once in awhile

- Juice often has as much sugar as soda or other sweetened drinks.
- Fruit juice offers no health benefits over whole fruit which provides fiber and can help children feel full.
- Too much juice for children, makes it more likely to have obesity, diarrhea, gas, and cavities.

Sugar-Sweetened Beverages (SSBs)

- 0-5 years: no sugar-sweetened drinks
- Examples of SSBs: soft drinks, soda, fruit or juice drinks, fruit-flavored drinks, fruitades, sports drinks, energy drinks, sweetened waters, and sweetened coffee and tea.
- SSBs put the most added sugars in children's diets. Fruit-flavored drinks (for example: fruitades, fruit cocktails, fruit punch) are the ones that children drink the most.
